NEWS & UPDATES:

Planning a building project in Oxford?

All construction, additions, and major renovations require a building permit through the City of Oxford. Applications are submitted at City Hall with building plans, and a $25 processing fee. A site plan may be required if applicable. After zoning approval, plans are reviewed by the Johnson County Building Inspection Department for code compliance. Once approved, permit fees are paid to the County, inspections are completed, and a Certificate of Occupancy is issued.

Residents can also look up Oxford's building permit code requirements online at:
